Executive Officer's Report

Free training opportunities

1. Questions your not-for-profit should be asking about finances is a webinar being held on Wednesday 7th September, 10.30am to 11.15am in our Community Resource Centre (CRC) meeting room.

Overseeing the finances is one of the most important tasks you have as a board member. Financial literacy will put your organisation in the best position to promote and fulfil your organisation's mission. If you don't understand how the finances work, you'll be at risk of getting caught up if anything goes wrong. And as we have seen over the past few years, things can (and will) go wrong!

In this webinar we'll be exploring:

- the questions you should be asking and the reports you should be seeing
- how to read, understand and act upon financial papers
- ways to build financial matters into decision-making processes.

2. Cyber Update: Keeping Safe Online is a webinar being held on Friday 9th September, 10.30am to 11.15am in our CRC meeting room.

In today's online world, cyber security incidents continue to increase in both volume and complexity. Simple and practical advice is essential to help your not-for-profit or community group stay safe online and stay ahead of the curve. Understand how you can adopt foundational controls to create a cyber-aware and resilient culture within your organisation.

Designed to provide practical insights and tools for the Australian market, this webinar will cover:

- getting the basics of cyber security right
- understanding the ins and outs of email payment fraud
- questions that need to be asked to better understand your organisation's risk posture
- sources of government cyber security guidance.

3. Candice Evans, Senior Regional Officer for Consumer Protection will be providing a ScamNet presentation at the Shark Bay Bowling, Sport and Recreation Club on Wednesday 14th September during the weekly Friendly Hub morning tea session at 10am.

Scammers try to steal your money or personal information — they are modern day fraudsters. Find out how to protect yourself by attending this session.

Candice will also be available to answer questions and provide advice regarding Consumer Rights, Housing and Accommodation, Scams and Motor Vehicles in the CRC meeting room that afternoon. Please don't be embarrassed, protect yourself and find out your rights.

4. A representative from RSM Bird Cameron will be running Bookkeeping Essentials with Xero on the 14th September in our CRC meeting room at 12pm.

Get Online Week

In the first half of October 2022 we will be encouraging our community to visit our Tech Time workshops on Thursdays to learn how to scan QR Codes in preparation for our Get Online Week event. What's a QR Code? Well it's a machine-readable code consisting of an array of black and white squares, typically used for storing URLs or other information for reading by the camera on a smartphone. Restaurants are often seen using these QR codes in the city for customers to access their menus and even order at tables as well as used by event organisers to direct interested traffic off marketing material directly to their event website.

During Get Online Week we propose to display posters around our community (on noticeboards, in the Inscription Post newsletter, on Facebook and web pages) to encourage our local community to practice scanning QR codes with an app on their own device. Those participating will be eligible to receive a reward once completing our challenge.

Mental Health Awareness Walk

In partnership with our local police and the Shire of Shark Bay we have been working on a project to create awareness for Mental Health Week in October. We will be holding a 24 hour non stop Mental Health Awareness Walk in Denham over the weekend of the 22nd October (similar to Relay for Life). Participants will be walking, riding a bike, pushing prams, jogging, walking their dogs (or whatever they choose) around the town oval in teams or individually.

We encourage our community to support this important awareness program. Challenge your friends to join your team and roster on as a walker over the 24 hour period. Maybe you want to carry a weighted backpack, a batten or another object as a symbol of your support to those carrying their own mental health burdens. You might only be interested or available to join after work for an hour or in the morning whilst you take your dog for its daily walk. Any contribution will be appreciated and recognised.

The Shire has kindly offered to provide the food and drinks for participants during this time frame as well as local emergency services donating a few lights to scatter around the oval for those continuing the walk into the night and early morning. Those needing some time to rest their eyes are welcome to bring along their swags and camp chairs whilst they wait their stints, spectate and support those continuing the journey.

Keep your eyes posted for more information as October approaches but you are more than welcome to register your interest to participate in whatever capacity you can offer with us at the Community Resource Centre.

Seniors Week

Seniors week is on our radar (6th – 13th November) and we are proposing some great activities and inclusions over several days this year. We are considering a card games day, drawing/painting self portraits, building a small do-it-yourself project and morning tea. We welcome ideas so touch base with our staff in the CRC.

Cheers
Jamie Burton

Shire of Shark Bay Notices

New Fire Danger Rating System

Shire of Shark Bay residents are advised that the current Fire Danger Rating system will be changing to a new Australian Fire Danger Rating System (AFDRS) backed up by a new Fire Behaviour Index (FBI) from 1 September 2022.

The change will see ratings decrease from six to four and will be displayed in a uniform format on signage across the nation. Across the country fire and emergency services are applying nationally consistent colours, signs, and terminology. This means that wherever you go in Australia, and whatever the season or fuels you're surrounded with, you can understand the level of threat and what you need to do to stay safe.

For more information, visit <https://www.sharkbay.wa.gov.au/.../new-fire-danger.../270>.

SBS Update

Unfortunately the new SBS satellite dish that was installed on July 17th has been irreparably damaged by strong wind gusts. Shire of Shark Bay staff have been successful in temporarily restoring the SBS signal.

Works will continue to be undertaken in the coming weeks to permanently resolve the problem by restoring or replacing the damaged dish. Updates will continue to be provided during this process. We apologise that this is causing ongoing inconvenience, and will keep working to resolve it as soon as we can.

— FREE — PULSE OXIMETER

The Department of Health is offering free pulse oximeters to vulnerable members in regional communities. A pulse oximeter is a small peg-like device that clips onto your finger to read your heart rate and blood oxygen levels.

Combined with the Department of Health's free WA COVID Care at Home service, these pulse oximeters will help to reduce pressure on Shark Bay's limited health care system.

The Shire has been issued with a number of oximeters that are free for eligible members of the community. If you can answer yes to the following questions you can pick up your oximeter at the Shire administration office:

Is your immune system compromised?
Do you have a chronic illness?
Are you pregnant?
Are you over 50?

Please note, if you are unable to collect your oximeter from the Shire Office, alternate arrangements can be made. Please call 9948 1218.

myGov is changing soon, making it easier for you

Your myGov account gives you access to a range of government online services. It will soon be changing on the 5th September and will have a fresh new look and more features, making it easier for you to access services you need.

When myGov changes, you won't need to change anything you currently do. You will still:

- find myGov at the same website address – my.gov.au
- sign in the same way, using your current sign-in details
- have access to all your linked services, including the ATO
- access ATO online services the same way
- receive ATO messages to your myGov inbox
- go to ATO online services to view reminders, messages and information relating to your tax and super
- lodge your business activity statement (BAS) through ATO online services if you're a sole trader.

Curious? You can visit the myGov Beta website, a trial site that lets you explore and get familiar with some of the new features which include more information about government payments and services

Remember, your myGov account is different to the myGovID app. You can use the myGovID app to sign in to your myGov account by entering or accepting a 4-digit code.

When myGov changes, people won't need to do anything different. They'll find it at the same web address (my.gov.au), use their same sign in details and all their linked myGov services will stay the same.

A Month in Town with the Boys in Blue

Our article for this month was going to lead with speaking about our Blue Light disco which was due to take place on Saturday having being in the works for a long time working with the Shark Bay P&C. Unfortunately the article now starts with a heartfelt apology to everyone who attended and helped at the disco for the boys in blue not attending as planned. Along with a massive thank you to the P&C for running the disco and doing more than was planned in our absence. Shortly before the disco was planned to start, we had an emergency which required our immediate attendance and kept all our officers tied up until well beyond the end of the disco.

We hope everyone who attended had a great time and we will work with the P&C to come up with an alternative date and do our very best to make it up to all the kids who attended at the next disco. There are many challenges experienced with operating a station with only three officers and this is one.

This month we have spent time with the members of the men's shed who currently meet on a Monday at 10am, it is great to see them in their new home and are actively seeking new members to join what is a friendly bunch of locals who share some common interests.

It was fantastic to hear recently that SJA have had some local residents express an interest in becoming volunteers, there has been a big drive in the community for more people to give up their time for what are critical services in the community. So it is amazing that people have taken up that challenge and are keen to help and join the other wonderful volunteers that we have in town. Let's not stop there, the 000 family in town still need more to join their ranks at SES, DFES, SJA and VMR. Thank you to those who have made that decision to join, it is an extremely rewarding role and we look forward to seeing you out on the road.

With October holidays upon us soon and the population in town about to rise with the arrival of visitors during that period. We will take this opportunity to ask as we have done in the past to secure your property, lock your car, do not leave things on display and do not leave items out the front of your property on display in full view of people passing by. Let's make it harder for crooks together keeping things locked and out of sight.

Kind regards

Colin

Shark Bay School News

I attended a Midwest Principals Meeting in Geraldton recently, an occasion when public school leaders shared information about new directions and priorities across the state. A couple of current priorities across the system include strongly promoting student attendance at school, and ensuring a positive, restorative approach to managing student behaviour. It was good to reflect that we are very much in line with current best practice in terms of student behaviour and engagement and that our student attendance figures compare favourably with most other schools in our region. However, we have room to improve attendance further and it is something that can make a huge difference to each student's long term prospects. The way that missed days add up to the equivalent of missed years is startling:

Absent average 5 days a term = 90% attendance rate = 1 year of school missed

Absent average 1 day per week = 80% attendance rate = 2 years of school missed

Absent average 1.5 days per week = 70% attendance rate = 3 years of school missed

Absent average 2 days per week = 60% attendance are = 4 years of school missed.

There is no 'safe' threshold of absence. Attendance matters for achievement and every day counts.

Bilya Kaatijin Incursion

It was lovely to welcome the theatre group Yirra Yaakin to perform Bilya Kaatijin on 10th August for our Primary students. Bilya Kaatijin connects stories from Noongar land (south-west Western Australia), Wonguktha land (the northern Goldfields), Aotearoa (New Zealand) and the Kikuyu people of Kenya (Africa), to teach us about the importance of water to First Nations people around the world. Journeying through the globe Koya the frog, Yaakan the turtle and Maali the swan take us through the gnamma holes to learn important lessons that will help save Bilya (fresh water) back on Noongar Boodjar. Through each character's journey the show teaches its audiences about the importance of accepting others, the power of empathy and the importance of caring for the earth.

Spare Parts Theatre Incursion

The Puppeteers from Spare Parts were back this year on August 11th with their wonderful show Hachiko – The Loyal Dog. Following the performance, which all students K-12 enjoyed, the Primary students had workshops in puppet-making and in performing, which made for a really great day of immersion in the Arts.

Book Week

We celebrated Book Week with an Assembly and costume parade on the theme Paws for Books on August 12th. Thanks to Miss Tish for organizing Book Week and to all the students who participated. There was a great response to the book sales, which also raised money for the school.

Certificates were awarded during Bookweek Assembly to:

Lahayla, Bella, Arnhem, Harvey, Korey, Noah, Jorja, Isabelle, Myah, Adriana, Denzel and Katie. Congratulations!

Online Glass Incursion for Science Week

Our Y3 and up classes enjoyed an informative session on the science of glass and its applications.

Secondary School Career Taster Program

We welcomed Ty Jones to present to our high school students on future career pathways, followed by having him join the class for a pizza lunch on 19.8.22. It's never too early to be thinking ahead and finding out about future options.

Sports Carnivals

We are looking forward to our day of athletics with our friends from Useless Loop P.S. on August 26 and are practising hard. We also plan to take a team to the Interschool Athletics Carnival in Carnarvon on 16 September. We are also pleased to have been invited to take part in an interschool event for our high school students, who have been invited to participate in rounds of friendly games of basketball and volleyball with Northampton DHS and Kalbarri DHS on 13 September in Northampton. We hope this will lead to return games and other fixtures and provide enjoyable social interactions as well.

School Council and P&C

Our School Council is now led by Chair Jay Hayes, with Brad Lyons, Tianna Oakley and Katie Mackay as family and community members. Please note that the Council has launched this year's National School Opinion Survey which helps us elicit feedback and suggestions for improvement. It has been sent out electronically but hard copies are also available in Reception. Please share your thoughts with us. Following a community suggestion, the Council has nominated the school in the WA Education Awards 2022, which is a lovely way to acknowledge the work and commitment of all our staff – thank you for your confidence in us.

Our P&C continues to provide wonderful support for the school and treats for the students and we especially thank the committee members for running the Disco on August 20th. It was a very enjoyable evening and a pleasure to see everyone enjoying themselves and being so friendly and helpful, including some of them staying to help clean the hall.

Safety on site

Please monitor your child/yourself for symptoms of COVID-19 and get tested and isolate until you receive a negative result, if symptoms develop. We have more free RATS tests to distribute to school families – please come to Reception to collect them (20 RATS/student). <https://www.healthywa.wa.gov.au>. WA Health 1300 316 555. Footy Tipping Wow! It went down to a nail-biting finish for this year's 2022 Shark Bay P&C Blind footy Tipping Comp! Who would have picked a 3-way tie! Well done to Graeme, Dale and Trudy for putting on a show all season.

A big thank you to everyone who took part in this year's tipping competition especially Rick Moroney for being official score checker and Bec Moroney who consistently advertised the ladder and results.

We all can relax now and cheer on the teams that have made the finals (do we dare say Flagmantle???) while getting ready to start thinking about next year's tips!

Pink Snapper Closure

Freycinet Estuary, an inner gulf of Shark Bay, will be closed for fishing for pink snapper from Monday, 15 August until 30 September 2022 (inclusive)

This closure provides protection for pink snapper while they aggregate to spawn, and is critical for sustaining breeding stock for these long-lived and slow-growing fish.

To find out more, check <http://rules.fish.wa.gov.au/Species/Index/13>

Shark Deterrent Rebate

The Western Australian Government is offering a rebate of $200 to Western Australian residents that purchase a scientifically-proven and approved personal shark deterrent device.

The world-first subsidy launched in May, 2017, was originally for 1,000 devices, but given the popularity of the program, funding has been extended.

Rebates are currently available when purchasing an Ocean Guardian FREEDOM7TM, Ocean Guardian FREEDOM+ SurfTM (Bundle) and/or the Complete RPELA Kit or RPELA Unit – Device Only.

Retailers of approved deterrents must first register with the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development. The rebate will then be applied at point of sale by the registered retailer. These servicing our region include; Batavia Coast Dive & Watersports, Geraldton
Getaway Outdoors, Geraldton
Mr Dive (online retailer - mrdive.com.au)
Ocean Guardian (online retailer - ocean-guardian.com)
underwater.com.au (online retailer)

There are several commercially available personal shark deterrent products on the market, but not all have been scientifically proven. Only devices that have gone through rigorous scientific testing and have been proven to significantly reduce the chance of an interaction with a white shark are eligible for the rebate.

Fisheries

It is the intention of the Western Australian Government to add additional products to the Shark Deterrent Rebate when suitable products have been scientifically tested and verified.

It is recommended that those interested in purchasing an approved device review the specifications carefully to ensure it is suitable for their desired use.

If we haven't answered your questions in the information provided please contact rebate@dpird.wa.gov.au.

During July and August club members have enjoyed the company of visiting golfers from near and far including from Bathurst (Vic) and from WA towns of Denmark, Albany and Perth. Many other visitors have used the honour system at the course and enjoyed a game on non-competition days. This year the course has benefited from regular showers of rain and the ongoing TLC of members, particularly the hard-working Captain Peter. In the absence of Peter on a family holiday, other members have tried to keep up his standards of raking the greens & mowing the fairways and the course is in great shape for an enjoyable round of golf. No visiting golfer should leave Shark Bay without experiencing a game of golf on the most westerly golf course on the Australian mainland!

The following lists the winners and runners-up for regular club competitions (9 holes) in July and August.

Club competitions will continue in September with 9-hole stableford events played every Wednesday and Saturday with a 1:30pm registration for a 2:00pm tee-off. The bar at the 19th Hole is open following the game.

Visitors are welcome at any time and visitor green fees are $5 for 9 holes (honour system) with cards available at the clubhouse. For those who want to have a hit after work, some shorter rounds (4 or 5 holes) are available.

Full sets of clubs are available at no cost on club competition days or by prior arrangement at any other time. Motorised buggies are available for hire on competition days at $5 per player for 9 holes for non-members and $3 each for members.

Bowel Cancer Screenings

Bowel cancer is the second most common cancer diagnosed in Western Australia, so we are shining a light on why bowel cancer screening is so important.

Bowel cancer often develops without any symptoms and can grow in the bowel for years before spreading to other parts of the body. Bowel cancer can occur at any age, but the risk increases significantly from the age of 50.

Screening for bowel cancer is incredibly important as the screening test can help find bowel cancer before you notice any symptoms. If found in the early stages, treatment is much more likely to be successful.

Here are four things you might not know about bowel cancer screening:

1. Australia has a free national screening program
The National Bowel Cancer Screening Program (NBCSP) is funded by the Australian federal government to help Australians check for bowel cancer in its early stages. The NBCSP sends free home test kits to Australians aged 50-74 with a listed address on the Medicare registry or Veterans Card. Eligible Australians will be sent an invitation to screen every two years from when they turn 50. You can order a free replacement kit if yours has expired or gone missing.

2. The simple home test kit could save your life.
Bowel cancer often develops with no symptoms and if left untreated, can spread to other areas of the body. The test kits are designed to detect small amounts of blood in your poo. If blood is detected, then further tests are required (usually a colonoscopy) which is used to diagnose many bowel conditions including bowel cancer. Bowel cancer screening is the best chance of finding a bowel cancer in its very early stages. When detected early, more than 9 out of 10 bowel cancers can be treated successfully. That's why this home screening test is so valuable – now is the time to tick bowel screening off your to-do list.

3. Bowel screening really is easy!
People are often surprised by how quick, simple, and hygienic the test kit is. What's best is you can complete the test in the comfort and privacy of your own toilet! All you need to do is collect a small sample of two consecutive poos and return them in the reply-paid envelope to the laboratory for testing. The test kit comes with step-by-step instructions but there is also a Test Kit Helpline if you need any further help. Your results will be sent to you and your nominated doctor in the mail about two weeks after you post your samples. Make sure you put the kit somewhere close to the toilet, so it's easy to reach when you are ready to use it.

4. Your loved ones are more likely to complete the test if you encourage them.

Now you know how important bowel cancer screening is, you can help spread the word and encourage your eligible friends and family to complete the test kit. They might just need a gentle nudge and it could save their life!

For more information

- To find out more about bowel cancer screening visit the Cancer Council Bowel Screening website.
- To find out your eligibility visit the National Bowel Cancer Screening Program website.
- If you have not received a kit, or it is damaged, misplaced or expired, fill in the test kit replacement form to order a free replacement.

Shark Bay SES

There are many different types of search and rescue techniques used in emergency situations all across the world. In SES we often find our volunteers involved in land, air, flood boat and vertical rope rescues just to name a few.

Of late during our weekly Monday training sessions here in Denham we have been discussing, practising and perfecting our general rescue skills should we ever find ourselves needing to utilise these in a situation.

Rescue methods we have been practising and are used by SES personnel include;

- single human crutch (used when the casualty is conscious, often seen in sporting games when one person assists to remove an injured player from the field/court etc)
- two human crutch (two people are on either side of the casualty supporting their body weight as can be seen in the below right image)

- piggy back or pick a back (casualty is conscious and only used for rescuing children or small adults as their body weight is supported on the rescuers hip or back)
- the fore and aft method (two rescuers using correct manual handling techniques carry out an unconscious or conscious casualty with a variation of leg/foot holds considered as per below)

- removal down stairs (dragging casualty backwards protecting head and arms from hitting objects which is often used to recover heavy casualties)

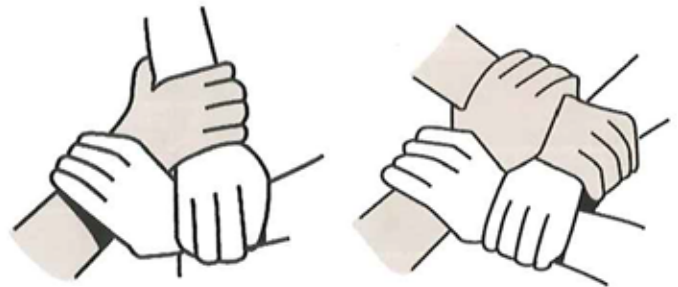

- removal down a ladder (can be used to assist a conscious or unconscious casualty as seen in the following photo). Remember to take note of the type of ladder used as fibreglass and aluminium ladders have rungs that are closer together compared with wooden that are further apart.

- two handed seat (used by two rescuers)
- three handed seat (used by two rescuers with the spare hand steadying the casualty)
- four handed seat (the casualty must be conscious)

Doors open policy

If you're interested in joining our team, come along to a weekly training session on Mondays between 5pm and 6pm.

Marine Rescue Shark Bay is pleased to announce that the contract to build Tamala Rose's replacement vessel has been awarded to Dongara Marine. Work will soon commence on a 12 metre RHIB style vessel with an enclosed walk around cabin powered by triple 300hp OXE diesel outboards.

Delivery is expected in May 2023 after sea-trials and handover are completed. This vessel will be fitted with state of the art technology. Internet connectivity will allow Water Police to send search patterns directly to the chart plotters via email. FLIR night vision cameras and radio direction finders for locating epirbs will mean we have the tools to carry out our search and rescue role at a very high standard. Over the last few years this group has been responsible for retrieving 11 people from the water after their vessels had capsized, at least 7 of these were in life threatening situations. I can guarantee that our new boat will also save lives during its expected 15 year service life.

Five of our members took Tamala Rose to Carnarvon last weekend to join the annual MARSAR exercise run by DFES. Geraldtons brand new RV Mimosa and Carnarvons RV Lady Daph were also involved in searching for and locating dummies and flotsam that had been deployed to simulate a yacht which had sunk with 4 people on board.

Denhams new OIC, Sergeant David Gannaway and police from Carnarvon were the Incident Management Team coordinating the exercise from the Marine Rescue radio room. Dummies were tagged with a description of their injuries and condition, and all were transported back to shore for a simulated handover to waiting ambulance crews. These exercises allow us to practice our skills in realistic scenarios so that when these situations occur for real in our area we are better equipped to respond and give ourselves the best chance of a favourable outcome.

Please stay safe out on the water, Marine Rescue Shark Bay.

Conservation Matters

Born to be wild... on Dirk Hartog Island National Park!

So far, 2022 has been a pretty good year for the Dirk Hartog Island National Park Return to 1616 Ecological Restoration Project. The science team has kept the ball rolling with the reintroduction of native animal species and monitoring of established populations. But best of all, many of the native animals found during monitoring are new offspring! They have been born on the island - born to be wild! And to top it all off, there has been above average rainfall, supporting the plant growth needed to provide habitat and food for the island's inhabitants to enthusiastically repopulate.

Fauna updates

Rufous hare-wallabies are now found over a large portion of the island from Cape Ransonnet to Turtle Bay and Banded hare-wallabies continue to steadily expand their range which runs from as far north as Herald Bay having been released as far south as Surf Point.

Shark Bay bandicoots are breeding like... well, breeding like bandicoots and are now found from south of Notch Point to Withnell Point in the north of the island and may reach Turtle Bay in the near future.

Right: Shark Bay mice began their reintroduction journey to the island last year and those first island pioneers have now been joined by 50 more of their kin from Bernier Island. This now completes the reintroduction numbers for this species, and they appear to be making an enthusiastic job of re-establishing themselves on the island.

The translocation of the greater stick-nest rats is also complete now following the logistically challenging journey of 60 'stickies' from East and West Franklin islands, South Australia. This was a significant achievement and was made all the more remarkable given that it was undertaken during the peak of Western Australia's COVID-19 'wave'. Their journey to Dirk Hartog Island is aimed at increasing genetic diversity of their Western Australian counterparts.

Although 'stickies' continue to be elusive in dodging the more standard monitoring methods like trapping, newly introduced technology allows them to be scanned with something like a supermarket bar code scanner at the entrance to their stick nest. This, together with photographs collected from remote cameras, is showing promising signs of success for this species.

Above: Greater stick-nest rats made an epic journey all the way from South Australia to Dirk Hartog Island National Park this year. Photo – Steve Reynolds (DBCA)

And last but most certainly not least, more dibblers bred in the captive breeding facility at Perth Zoo will be flying up in mid-October to join the 93 dibblers previously translocated from Perth Zoo to Dirk Hartog Island.

You can help protect fledgling native animal populations

With the ongoing success of the threatened native animal reintroductions on Dirk Hartog Island National Park, it's a timely reminder to prepare well if travelling to the island by boat. We can all be involved and 'do our bit' to help protect this internationally significant wildlife restoration project. Please leave your pets at home when visiting the island by boat.

Right it only takes a few seconds for a dog to have a serious impact on a small, newly introduced population of precious, threatened native animals. Dogs are not permitted in the national park.

Left Remember to keep rodent bait stations installed and topped up on your boat to prevent bringing any 'freeloaders' with you to the island.

Shore birds nesting season is upon us

Jumping for joy

A busy fairy tern nesting season along Western Australia's coastline has been a delight for bird watchers and researchers alike. And, with the help of dedicated citizen scientists, it's hoped new conservation efforts will boost numbers.

by Claire Greenwell and Kendall O'Connor

The great shorebird nesting season is upon us. Each spring through summer, Oystercatchers, Plovers and Terns flock to beaches all over Australia's coastline to lay eggs in a shallow scrape in the sand. We understand the home lives of shorebirds in other parts of Western Australia but as yet what where and when it all happens in Shark Bay is less well understood.

We do know that elsewhere along the coast the nesting season for the Fairy terns (Sternula nereis nereis) has begun. Here in the bay, over the next couple of months, some of our beaches are going to become their nurseries. These birds nest on the ground above the high water mark. Nesting on the beach is precarious and consequently in many parts of Australia their numbers have vastly decreased and they are now 'vulnerable'.

Shorebirds won't nest on all the beaches that we can use. They require special conditions to use a beach as a home. Temporarily, while they are using the beach, we can think of these special beaches just like nurseries...not ideal places for off road driving or letting our dogs chase the birds for exercise.

We can help to care for these at risk birds by getting to know more about the homelives of our shorebirds in Shark Bay including the Fairy terns. Over the next few months be on the lookout for them.

- If you see them on the beach above the hightide mark, keep well clear
- Temporary measures to help protect these birds increase their chance of breeding success. We can help by sharing the space and be respectful of any temporary signage and fencing.

- Let's keep our dogs leashed and away
- Let's avoid driving four-wheel drive vehicles on the beaches where they are, particularly at high tide
- If you see a bird nesting on the beach (they will be hanging out above the hightide mark), report it to the DBCA office here in Denham and maintain your distance
- Let's avoid walking through flocks of birds or causing them to take flight. Disturbance burns energy, which could have implications for breeding or migration

Here are some links where we can learn more about them and their care.

Living with History

First Job

When my father died at an early age I regret to say I turned into the sort of kid who today blames his obnoxious behaviour on everything except himself. In my day the verdict was that there was "nothing wrong with me that a good hiding wouldn't fix". Unfortunately there was no one at home capable of giving me that hiding. Eventually I made such a nuisance of myself that I achieved my object. I was allowed to leave school before the leaving age of fourteen and shipped off down the southern wheat belt to a job on the farm. This was as far away as various interested parties could send me.

There was a small community there, mostly related, who had moved over here from the Victorian Malley, where their farming methods had turned the country into a dust bowl. They had learned nothing and were now in the process of doing the same thing here. The farms were only about one thousand acres and were mostly run just by the family and perhaps one poorly paid farmhand. This was during the Great Depression and jobs were scarce. My wages were ten shillings or one dollar a week and keep. My boss and his brother on the next farm killed one sheep a month between them. The rest of our diet consisted of rabbits, porridge made of ground wheat and home-grown vegetables. There were a few milking cows. The milk was separated and the cream churned into butter. This, together with any eggs from the free range chooks, was sold in town by the farmer's wife. There was an old tractor on the farm but most of the work was done with horses. It was my job to feed and groom these gentle giants and I became very fond of them. The way they acted with me I think they felt the same way. There was a huge Clydesdale stallion that had to be kept in a separate stall. He had the reputation of being savage but after awhile we became friends and I could do anything with him. Working hours were from daylight, when I gave the horses their first feed, till about eight o'clock, when they had their last one, with general farm work in between.

Sunday I had off, except for tending to all the animals unless the boss could think of something that could not be put off till Monday. I had no contact with the family after work. If they went to town or any social event I was left home to look after the stock. There was an old dog on the form. No one seemed to own or care for him. I used to trap rabbits to feed him. He used to follow me around and sleep by my bed. Sometimes he and I slept with the stable with the horses. We all seemed to enjoy each other's company. After I had been there about 6 months I asked the boss for an accounting. There were no paydays on forms then. You drew money if you needed it and were paid up if you left or went on holidays. I got a vague answer and from then on the boss started finding fault with everything I did. I got the idea he wanted me to leave and to give him an excuse not to pay me. Things came to a head one morning when I was stacking some bags of wheat in the shed. I heard a shot and on investigating I found that he had shot the dog. He said that it had killed a chook. The poor old hound couldn't have caught a chook! I was not fully-grown but I was toughened by hard work and very angry. The farmer shortly found himself flat on his back with a bloodied nose and watching me smash his rifle on the gatepost. I collected my few belongings and, followed by the farmer's threats and curses, I took off. I walked twelve miles into town and turned myself in to the local Policeman. Like most country cops he was a thoroughly decent man. After hearing my story he took me into his house, asked his wife to feed me and left. He returned after a couple of hours to inform me that there would be no charges against me and that he had all the money owed to me. He also offered to find me a better job. I thought it over for awhile but then thanked him and said it was time to move on. The action of that decent country cop left me with the only pleasant memories of that district and its inhabitants. I did hear later that the big stallion I had befriended had put the former in hospital. The news cost me no sleep.
